

MRS. STEWART DENIES REPORT THAT SHE WILL LEAVE STATE

[Special to The Herald]

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3.—Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart tonight denied reports that she intended quitting the State with the expiration of the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission July 1. It was rumored that Mrs. Stewart intended to take up similar work in another state. Mrs. Stewart said her work in serving as chairman of the Illiteracy Committee of the National Education Association will take her out of the State frequently during the year, but that she intends to maintain her residence in Kentucky. She will attend a meeting of the National Committee at Salt Lake City shortly after July 1, at which time the State Illiteracy Commission passes out of existence, owing to the failure of the recent Republican legislature to provide funds for the commissions' work.
